Simon Says

Simon says how do you do and please to make your acquaintance.
Simon says be elected and go with the crowd ... or else Simon says marry that nice girl, buy a modern applianced house and have a kid or two.
Simon says let's go to the party and destroy our livers.
Simon watches us grow fat and dull and grotesque.
Simon says turn on the gas

Simon cries silently and chalks up another one.

-Amy Buckridge

We huddled 'round the radiant, roaring beach fire, laughing and conversing, our minds singing with joy and fellowship as the last traces of the glowing twilight erased themselves from the star-filled sky. Glancing around the circle, the cheery warmth and sheen of the blaze was reflected in every smiling face, and I saw each pair of eyes shine with friendliness and compassion.

A few of us were attempting to toast marshmallows to a delicious golden brown; however, a lot of them caught on fire. The soft squishy centers stuck to our fingers and in our mouths.

Across the deep, dark abyss of the bay, another fire could be seen; an echo of our own happy experience—a timeless evening between friends.

You never really win

you never really win
you never really lose you never really broke my heart you just gave me the blues.

you never really promised you never really tried you never really wanted
all you did was lie.

you never really cared you never really came you never really took the time you just gave me the blame.

you never really shared you never really gave you never really made me cry from the way that you'd behave

you never really teased me you never really hurt
you never really walked away all you did was flirt.

you never really used me
you never really went far you never really left your mark but you sure did leave a scar.

you never really were mean you never really were kind you never really left my heart just slipped behind my mind.

The ever-annoying lunch bell rings. Where to go?

The monsoon rains are turning everyone's day grey and I can't see across the Purdy Bridge for the thick, autumn mist that has hung low over everything all day. Outside is out, so inside is it.

I walk into the cafeteria with a friend only to be confronted by a deluge of noise and flying food that is altogether as appealing as skinny-dipping in the frosh pond on a day twice as cold and wet as today.

Finally, I escape to the hall during one of its rare, quiet moments. Once again, it seems to be a refuge from the people and hassles of school for a few minutes, as it has been for me many times in the past. I look down the long and pleasantly empty length of my asylum and wonder why I wasted time looking for somewhere else to spend the only free time I get all day. I dare to kick back and relax before the bell screams, releasing the flocks of sheep to once again test the strength of the very walls against which I am contentedly standing.

Suddenly, a sinister being in the form of a faculty member appears from around the corner with a look of disappointment on his face at seeing the look of relaxation on mine. I am approached by this person and told that I must leave the place to which I have occasionally chosen to escape for four years. Being that this surprising and very disappointing ultimatum is issued not only during my lunch period, but for no apparent reason, I resentfully decline.

As I walk to the office, I feel it makes no difference whether this teacher is insistent about his order or not, as my tranquil feeling has come to an abrupt end.

In the end, as I walk to my fifth period class, I am overcome by the deflated feeling that has evolved as the child of my school years and me. Alas, I wonder, is nothing sacred?

-Mike Fandel

There is no substitute for being young. In fact, it's the only way to go about being old.

Youth is a very singular period in itself, though. It possesses subtle distinctions from infancy. Diapers are no longer used on a regular basis and the abilities to feed one's self and go to bed without a night-light are present.

There are distinctions to be made between Youth and Old Age as well. Dentures are not yet needed, social security checks are not received and one is unable to watch "The Lawrence Welk Show" for extended periods.

There is a particular lack of understanding between the young and the old. This may be due to a difference in vernacular. When polled for their responses to the work "geriatrics" a group of young people unanimously assumed it was an event in the Olympic Games.

On occasion, people feel that because of the young there is very little hope for the future. However, after thinking about it, one soon sees that without the young, there is no hope for the future.

We, the young, are always quick to say that no one understands Youth. However, years from now when we, the old, are going through our scrapbooks, mementos and yearbooks, it might be worth remembering that it's not our place to understand Youth, just to support it a little. After all, it's the only way to go about growing old.

- Steve Early

The cafeteria food this year is much better. We have the same variety of foods as last year and they are fresher.

We have one of the most unusual lunch systems in the state. Most schools have hot lunch programs that cost the districts a lot of money. In fact, they usually lose money. But we don't - we make money.

The program is set up by an outside company. They do everything except clean up. They provide food which is good and inexpensive. And the ASB makes money which helps support the student activities program.

We choose what we eat. We don't have to wait in long lines or eat peas and beans and food that we don't like. So why complain? I say we are lucky.

-Paul Galligan

The Wizard

The wizard picks up his wand ...
And wonders aimlessly –
What is magic?
A girl smiles ...
he doesn't see it.

The wizard eats his dinner ...
And ponders how he can help –
The human pain.
A child dies of hunger ...
he doesn't feel it.

The wizard looks out ...
Upon the sun sinking into the sea –
And thinks he sees it all.

The wizard sits and dreams ...
Of incantations and illusions –
And thinks he knows life.

You are my love; my life
And I am yours.
We share, laugh, live
and love.
Even when times are bad,
our friends turn away;
we'll stay together.
Together, forever.
Dreams, hopes, reality, and wishes are a part of us.

The Journal

A rainbow came down
and touched me;
crystallizing the teardrops of the skies
on green marble leaves.
It warmed me.

A man came today,
flashing his love;
he helped me to overcome
the universal pain:
loneliness.
He sheltered me.

I ate today,
a small rabbit;
soft powder-puff,
covered with red paint,
dying for my life.
It nourished me.

I am happy,
for I exist.
Today, life felt — good.

KAREN,

Another year, another annual, right? it's been fun this year getting to know you better. If you're ever up by Palmer Lake be sure and look up Joe Walsh for me, okay? I don't know why but every time I sign one of these things I end up asking questions. Maybe it's my delinquent mind at work? This has got to be one of the best pictures, with the blue sky. Take care of yourself this summer and for God's sake keep those grades up! Sharon Strode

Autumn

Some find school amusing,

Good times, sandled feet and heat waves were gone. Once again the gears in our brains were forced in motion.

Double shifting was introduced to Pen High this year. The upperclassmen started the day at the miserable hour of 7:30 and freshmen began at 11:00. The purpose of double shifting was to relieve the crowded conditions at Peninsula. But between classes so many people jammed the halls it seemed as if the halls would burst. (That's why certain people hold them up.)

Turn-out for fall sports started at the end of summer. Beginning practice in August proved to be a wise move for the football, cross country and swim teams who all made it to State.

Autumn brought play auditions. Mr. Milt Boyd chose "Godspell" as the first play of the year. Only 20 people could get parts, making this the smallest musical ever.

On October 4 another exciting event at Pen High was the selection of Renee Taylor as our daffodil princess.

Cold weather set in and people started to look forward to the holidays. Thanksgiving was around the corner and then there was Christmas. Fall became winter. The spirit of the season was here.

"The Wild, Wild West" was our theme and all classes joined in the festivities. The week started with hats, climaxed with cowboys and on Friday traditional green and white were worn.

Thursday was Bonanza day and assembly day. Class competitions took place, and the senior class won the chariot race.

Homecoming royalty included: freshman princess and prince Marla Dillon and Roby McIntyre; sophomore princess and prince Diane Gall and Greg Scott; junior class princess and prince Carol Brynteson and Scott O'Hara. The senior class was represented by Carol Eddy and Rick Lovrovich as princess and prince, with Lynn Graham and Chuck Hacker as the queen and king.

The football game was a victorious 17-14 win over Tyee, with a big hoedown in the gym afterwards. Girls Club reported that the dance was successful, with approximately 265 people attending.

It was what you might call an unbelievable season. Our Peninsula Seahawks suddenly became a state "AA" football powerhouse after years of frustrating mediocrity. They captured the Seamount League Championship for the first time since 1956, won more games than any team in Peninsula history and were ranked among the state's top ten teams for the first time in recent memory.

The Seahawks not only led the league as a team, but had some outstanding efforts as well. Senior fullback Jeff Hunt was the league's leading rusher and scorer, carrying the ball 902 yards and scoring 12 touchdowns and a two-point conversion. Jeff's brother Steve led all Seamount League quarterbacks, completing 58 percent of his 203 passes for 1,470 yards and 18 touchdowns. Senior split end Mike Bos was number one among league receivers, catching 39 passes for 526 yards and 9 touchdowns. Rick Anderle defensively led the Seahawks tacklers for the second consecutive season.

Cross-country races to "Ok you guys, jog the mile loop and meet on the upper field. We'll do ten 440's and a 3 mile run," yells Coach Joel Wingard as the runners run outside into the heat of the sun, or windy, rainy weather.

Why do they put themselves through the pain and agony of long distance running? Some runners run to get into shape for their winter sport. Others run because they like cross-country, but the multitude are out for the fun of being on the team.

This was the first year Peninsula cross-country runners—both boys and girls—have gone to state. Peninsula girls were undefeated in all AA competitions. They captured first place in the Seamount League, first at the West Central District Meet and fourth in state competition. The boys varsity were second only to Glacier, this year's league champs in league competition. They fought for third place in district, and went on to state for sixth place. The boys' JV were easy Seamount champs by capturing first, second, fourth, fifth, and seventh places. They were also undefeated in our league. Though their season ended at League, many continued to train with the rest of the team. "It helps to have a lot of people at turnouts," confessed one state competitor. "When you're out running, you get kinda lonely. You need people around to talk to you and keep you going."

Cross-country is run in three races—varsity boys and girls and boys' JV. The races go from 1.6 to 2.5 miles, depending on the course. Teams are scored by place—first place receives one point and second place gets two points. The best score wins the meet.

Though the athletes run by themselves during races, they are running for the team to win. "The point isn't to beat a team member, you beat the one in front of you," explained one runner. "Nobody is out there for themselves."

Varsity volleyball had a good start with two wins in a row after their first loss, and continued towards the middle of the season with a five game winning streak, followed by two losses and another win.

Junior varsity had a bad start, losing four games, but came to life in the middle of the season and won three games in a row, and one at the end of the season.

Coach Kathy Spadoni said the main contributing players were Laurie Hotchkiss and Mary Ann Stoican, both spikers, and Dede McKenzie, a setter, but the team improved overall. The players individual skills improved, also, but the greatest improvement was their ability to work as a team, according to Spadoni. They're looking for the championship next year.

The girls pool their talent

A mixture of youth, ambition, and spirit led this year's girls' swim team to a great season. Team captains Dede Britt and Eve Tallman piloted the swimmers and divers to an excellent 11-2 dual meet season. The only losses came at the hands of powerful Wilson and Eisenhower High Schools. The team finished on top of the Seamount League for the 7th year in a row.

Excellent coaching by Kimo Streeter and a combined team effort guided Peninsula to repeat as District 5 champions. The 400 freestyle relay team of Jody Widrig, Kristy Lee, Suzy Rosik, and Kitsy Lee also repeated as district champions.

Eleven members of the team qualified for the state meet at the University of Washington. High placings by Kim Lile, Jody Widrig, Kitsy Lee, and diver Lisa Olson steered Peninsula to a 12th place finish overall and the first place AA school. The 400 free relay and the 200 medley relay teams also placed 4th and 10th respectively.

This year we really have reason to be proud of the winning girls' swim team. They are truly "super Seahawks".

PHS golf team swings again

With three four year lettermen, Chris Noble, Greg Larson, and Dan Martinelli, the Peninsula High School golf team finished the season with a 7-6 record in league action, and fourth place in the Seamount League Tournament.

Greg Larson had a good year, being named to the All-Seamount second team. He also was voted the team captain and won the medalist award which goes to the best golfer of the team. Brent Farmer won the J.V. award, while Scott Smith was voted most inspirational. Freshman Kim Larsen came on strong this year playing varsity as the first girl ever to play golf on the PHS team.

With three returning lettermen, Kim Larsen, Scott Smith, and Devin Allard, the golf team should be heading for a winning season.

Frosh: 380 bright, new faces

September 7 rolled around and unsuspecting freshmen were thrown into the every-day routine of life at Peninsula High School.

"Our first few days were kinda bad. All the upperclassmen called us 'dumb frosh.'"

This year's freshmen had a new situation to cope with—double shifting.

"Double shifting turned out okay—at least better than expected. The best thing was to sleep in, but the bad part was leaving school so late."

It was a different ball game, but the freshmen learned the rules fast.

The class of '81 made a good start on the year by electing officers to help get things going. They were: Craig Undem, president; Marci Flores, vice president; Becky Gunnerson, treasurer; and Chris Greer, secretary. Kerry Fandel and Heidi Hurlburt represented the class in Girls' Club.

Soon homecoming came up and the freshmen really got involved and pitched in all their creative talents to make a great float for the "Wild, Wild West" theme. Princess Marla Dillon and Prince Roby McIntyre were announced at the special assembly held the day before. The cheering, class competitions, and royalty announcements at the assembly really helped boost the Seahawk Spirit the freshmen were just beginning to share.

As for sports, this year's freshmen certainly weren't lacking in athletic ability and potential. The frosh football team "did fine" this year according to freshman player Jim Jacobson. Their record—5 wins and only 2 losses—shows that they are on their way to being future superstars. Of course, football isn't the only sport the versatile freshmen excel in. They also participate in golf, swimming, volleyball, and basketball, to name just a few.

"We're happy to finally become a part of P.H.S. and we hope to enjoy the years to come!"

"No, it's just the morons on the other side of the cafeteria."

Soon Mr. Pulisevich strides over and reprimands the guilty party. Once again things are back to normal the normal level of chaos.

"What about this 'new' food they say they are feeding us?"

"New? Maybe dressed-up but certainly not new."

"Look—next table down—I recognize that poor boy from last year."

"Right! I heard the counselors talking. They said one more year and they can graduate it."

"I hear you. Wanna go to the lobby?"

"Sure."

Winter

Is it really Santa Claus?

Thanksgiving snow marked the end of fall for Peninsula students. A long winter lay ahead full of events.

Roller skating parties, choir and band concerts, and ski school kept our days and nights busy. Debaters gave speeches at several tournaments while selected musicians from our band and choir attended the All State Music convention.

Sports events abounded during the winter months. It was an exciting day when our football team battled in the Kingdome. School spirit soared as we finished second in state. With Seahawk pride running high we went on to winning seasons in basketball, wrestling, and swimming.

Christmas brought sprigs of mistletoe and ho ho ho's ringing through the halls of Peninsula. Santa Claus came to hear everyone's Christmas wishes.

February arrived and with it the Junior Prom. The theme "You're in My Heart" was carried out with valentines. Couples danced to the music of "Deuces Wild."

The air smells fresh and flowers bloom as spring arrives. Its fever hits and we look forward to the fun ahead.

Girls' shoot with their own kind of style

Thanks to improved outside shooting, a tenacious defense, lots of faith, and a little superstition, the girls' basketball team had a victorious season.

The reason for the girls' success was not only because they had four returning starters and the most talented back-up in the league, but also because of their friendship. As Karen Uddenberg, a starting forward, put it, "It's like a big family with everyone trying to help one another and each person wanting to learn."

Superstition also was an influential force. Dough-boy and Champ, the two team mascots, were as much a part of the team as anyone. Without a little love from both of them before the games MaryAnn Stoican may have never mastered her skyhook, or Teresa Fraychineaud, her outside jumpshot.

All superstitions and talent aside, the most important reason for their success, according to the girls, is their coach, Mr. Paul Berg. Kathy Higginbotham and Sara Eason summed up Mr. Berg's coaching: "He really cares about you and wants you to play your best and have fun, but, you have to have faith in yourself and your teammates in order to win at anything. It that's all Bergie taught us, he taught it well".

The 1977-78 Peninsula swim team captured third in the district meet. Even Coach Kimo Streeter came home with honors being named the 1977-78 district "Coach of the Year."

Senior Tom Wick had an outstanding season qualifying for the state meet in seven events. Bill Dougherty qualified for five, and Joe Hodges represented PHS in state diving.

Seven seniors will be leaving the team, but with five returning lettermen to defend their excellent eleven-win, one-loss, and one-tie record, Peninsula swimmers will stay on top.

Since two coaches and over half the wrestling team were out on the football field three weeks into the start of the winter wrestling season, the late start could have affected the team negatively, but the PHS wrestling team was never better.

With three matches to go, plus league, district and state, Peninsula was 3-3 in league action, and 7-5 in the overall standings. The 135 pound state champ wrestler for 1976-77 Rick Anderle and Paul Vandervelde, who competed at state last year at 168 pounds, both returned this year to compete for the Seahawks, and were undefeated.

As the season progressed, crowd support improved. Many parents came, and an increasing number of students came out to cheer on their friends. It appeared that people began to understand the concentration and dedication it took for thirteen men to pull on their uniforms (and tights) and apply themselves to six minutes of aggressive and usually exciting man on man competition. This led to a greater enjoyment for all who attended.

This year's varsity basketball team hoped to follow up last year's successful season with one of their own. Their first goal was to reach the state tournament. This was to be much more difficult this year than last due to a rule change which allowed only the top two teams to go rather than the four that were sent in the past.

The team was senior-dominated this year. Seven seniors, Chuck Hacker, Mike Bos, Jeff Hunt, Dave Estes, Mike Fandel, John Skansi and Dan Bennett highlighted the squad. The remainder of the team were juniors, featuring returning starter Paul Skansi, Ken Owens, Brian Paige and Eric Marrs.

Having lost most of the height of last year, the Hawks planned to move from a mostly inside game to an inside-outside game to take advantage of the talent at all positions. Despite the height loss, they figured to be tough on the boards with good jumpers up front.

Coach Bill Montgomery had high expectations for 6'7" center Chuck Hacker and guard Paul Skansi as team leaders and expected the team to go a long way.

State Individual Events Team Championships five years in a row. State Debate Finalists four out of the last five years. Notoriety throughout the Pacific Northwest.

With several experienced juniors and seniors and a multitude of ambitious sophomores, Peninsula's talented forensics team once again headed for complete domination of Washington State "AA" speech and debate in 1978.

And, with any luck at all, the Toads should just keep on winning, and winning. And . . .

Sophomores

Last fall the class of "80" came back from a long summer vacation no longer "dumb frosh" but sophomores. After a year of Pen High experiences behind them, they soon became active in everything.

The class officers this year were: Brett Pierce, president; Tisa Nicholson, vice president; Karen Boxberger, secretary; Marlene May, treasurer. Julie Hildebrand, Michelle Kantor, and Jackie Pettie were representatives in Girls Club.

Linda Heather, Kathy Fleming, Heidi Madden, and Annette Andrea were the 1977-78 J.V. cheerleaders. All through the year they practiced and made signs to promote school spirit. The newest addition to the cheering squad was the Seahawk mascot, sophomore Laura Hoey.

Sophomores proved themselves to be very athletic. At the Kingbowl, Hugo Crichfield was on the starting lineup and Marty Thornton also contributed to the action. Other outstanding players were Kelly Grewelle and Jeff Selfors. Kitsy Lee and Jody Widrig swam for the girls swim team. Jody Spadoni and Andrew Lathrop ran on the cross-country team. Tony Wright, Jeff Selfors, Jay Bowles, Marquis Laughlin wrestled varsity. Diane Gall, Janelle Rice, Jenny Eason, and Joni Jerkovich put to use their basketball skills on the varsity team. The sophomores were involved in all sports, both j.v. and varsity. Sophomores sang in the top choir, played in the highest bands and were a big part of drama and speech throughout the whole year.

The 392 strong sophomore class has what it takes to be really super Seahawks.

2. Our own Clark Gable- Brian Nelson.
3. Jon Neeland and George Hofferber look distracted.
4. Is she really that cute, John Larsen?

The job market in a metropolitan town like Gig Harbor for part time jobs is not exactly booming these days. But as difficult as it may be for students to find jobs, there are a few who manage quite well. A good percentage of Peninsula students have some type of job, whether it is a job related to school, or a job they got on their own.

From the nervewracking interview to the time you find out you've gotten the job, it's an eye opening experience for most people. The first real glimpse of the world comes when you have to deal with a not so pleasant customer. And then there's always those Friday nights spent working while your friends go to the football games.

Job's aren't always as glamorous as they sound, but there are a few good things to be said about them. One is that jobs are great excuses when you haven't done your math homework. Another is probably the most important aspect of any job-the money! When you get your hands on those green bills, all the work and frustration of last week is forgotten until the next work day.

Students' Jobs

Spring

Springs hits us all—at

Spring arrived and the annual flock of frisbee freaks and sun lovers of Peninsula High School came out to enjoy the sunshine. The front lawn became the new cafeteria if you could eat while dodging frisbees, footballs, or even handfuls of grass. Definitely, spring fever affected all of us.

The most affected were probably the seniors. The class of '78 was looking forward to June 14—graduation day—the end of one of the most important steps of their lives.

As for sports, the Seahawks once again showed their athletic abilities as they ran, jumped, and kicked their way to victory. The baseball team came out in full swing, accompanied by a new girls' softball team. Soccer was introduced as a spring sport for girls in addition to the already successful boys' team. The tennis team proved their athletic talents by representing our school in league play, while the turnout for boys' and girls' track made this year's team one of the best yet. To end the winter wrestling season, Rick Anderle, Paul Vandervelde, and Jay Selfors went to regionals, taking 1st, 2nd, and 7th respectively, for their weight classes. Rick Anderle and Paul Vandervelde each took 1st places in state.

The spring musical, "My Fair Lady," with Lyn Veitenhans in the leading role, was a big success, and the bands and choirs entertained us in their spring concerts. In addition, Brad Burkle on trumpet and Mari Nelson's vocal solo went to state for the music department.

Every year spring comes and goes, and as the weather gets warmer and the sun starts shining more every day, we all wish it wouldn't go so fast. The seniors are on the way to their new lives away from Peninsula, juniors look forward to filling the empty chairs left behind from the seniors, and all the classes move up one step on the "ladder".

The winter "blues" are finally gone.

Only one more

Becoming a junior at Peninsula is the best thing to happen next to becoming a senior, and the class of '79 was here to prove it. This group of people had much to be proud of. Our class represented Peninsula with more participation in school events and activities than any other class.

As soon as school started, Homecoming was upon us. Our junior class royalty was represented by Carol Brynteson and Scott O'Hara. The halftime festivities included the junior float which was, of course the best.

Fall was the season for our major sports at Peninsula High School and football was here. Rocky Wheat, J.R. Hemley, Dave Harrison, Steve Hunt, Tony Williams, Paul Skansi and Bob Valley made up half of the starting line-up. Cross country was led by Ty Strange, Merrilou Day, Michael Galligan and Mark Iles. The girls' swim team went to state with the help of Eve Tallman, Suzi Rosik, Kim Lile and Caron Comstock. And the drama department included many juniors such as Robin Smith, Diane Crites, Sharon Carnes and Warren Knapp. The girls' starting basketball team was almost completely made up of juniors Karen Uddenberg, Sara Eason, Teresa Fraychineaud, Jenny Sproul and Maryann Stoican. The boys' basketball team was strong this year with leaders like Paul Skansi, Eric Marrs and Kenny Owens. Both Kenny and Paul were starters for the team.

Almost every activity and sport was led by members of the junior class. This year's Girl's Club had Laura Grace as their president. Laura was helped by Vice President Lisa Koenig, Treasurer Laurie Hotchkiss, and the Junior Class Representative was Katie Knuth.

The music department at Peninsula is quite well known. The juniors who made it to all-state for our band were Laurie Hotchkiss, Paul Parker, Jackie Widney, Laura Wood and Ann Roe. The all-state choir included Laura Grace and Gary Ellison.

Seven out of the eight cheerleaders were juniors: Cheryl Craig, Jackie Widney, Carol Brynteson, Pam Mullen, Kelly Mullen, Debbie Downer and Julie Guinn. Our government was run by Grey Drohan, president; Sharon Carnes, vice-president; Ann Roe, secretary; Wendy Malich, treasurer. These four helped to make our year as good as it was.

The class of '79 chose "You're in My Heart" as their theme for the Junior Prom. The dinner and dance was held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Winthrop Hotel. Red and white hearts decorated the room filled with couples in evening gowns and rented tuxedos.

Couples enjoyed a dinner of prime rib and vegetables. Later they danced to the music of "Deuces Wild". The band played popular songs such as "Don't Go Changing" and "Dance, Do the Boogie, Get Down."

Prom royalty was announced before the dancing began. King and queen were Dave Harrison and Kathy Hughes, princes and princesses were Rocky Wheat, Heidi Lundquist, J.R. Hemley and Peggy Miller.

With the melody of the last song still playing in their minds, couples danced out into the night.

Peninsula introduces girls'

Spring was finally here, and along with it came good weather and softball.

This year saw Peninsula's first girls' softball team, and it was met with much enthusiasm. Sixty girls turned out, but only 28 were selected. Practice began quickly after the cut was made. Turnout was held first at Purdy Elementary. Not long into the season the girls spent a Saturday working on the Rosedale Playfield getting it ready for future practices.

Infield included Janelle Rice, Kathy Higginbotham and the outfield defense relied on the arms and fielding ability of Sue Rolstad, Jenny Sproul and Julie Johnson. Coach Paul Berg commented that he had confidence in the hitting ability of Higginbotham, Rolstad and Lisa Srail who led the team in hitting.

The girls enjoyed the first season and hope next year brings even more excitement and challenge.

Peninsula baseball gets

The baseball team started out the season with a tie against Charles Wright, then went through the season very successfully.

Coach Kevin Miller felt the hardest teams they played against were Enumclaw and Tahoma.

The seniors that played on the team were Rick Anderle, Dean Bergman, Randy Carlson, Marty Coronado, Jeff Hunt, Scott Karamatic, Jim Leonard, Jim Prince and Rick Snyder. They were helped by juniors Joe Bowman, Dave Harrison and Scott O'Hara.

The team members were very enthusiastic and felt it was a very good year. They all worked together and the seniors enjoyed their last season.

Girls victorious at finish line

With the largest turnout ever, 42 members, including 5 state competitors, the Peninsula girls' track team was definitely tough to beat.

At the start of the season, Coach Kathy Spadoni looked forward to an exciting season with many talented athletes competing. With such a well balanced team, many girls traveled to Spokane at the end of May to compete at state.

The winning combination of good coaching, many returning lettermen, and versatile new athletes made for a great season. Once again, the Seahawks proved themselves to be nothing less than number 1.

With good weather behind them, the tennis team began practice March 1st. Returning lettermen, Janis DeBolt, Allan Overland, Helena Hauge, Terry Best, Wendy Brown, and Chris Roller along with six new players, Brad Heacock, Mark Nelson, Dave Stageberg, Nancy Ng, Diana Smith and freshman Tom Peterson made up the varsity team.

With the use of the Town and Country Club tennis courts, the varsity team had a good start. Under the coaching of Roland MacNichol they started out strong by beating Bainbridge in the first match.

For the first time in the last four years a JV team was formed with a good freshmen turnout. The program grew with this new addition under the direction of Coach Rolf Trembly.

Peninsula's boys'

1978 brought the Seahawks another successful season. Strength in the field events and depth in the distance running were special assets that put the team among the top contenders in our league.

Under Head Coach Don Pulisevich, Dave Estes, team captain, excelled in the long and triple jump. While Chuck Hacker, Gary Ellison, Brad Burkle, Chuck Chandler, John Ubben and Pat Ryan performed well in the jumping and vaulting areas. In the shot put, discus and javelin events were Steve Morse, Tony Williams and Gene Thompson.

Mr. Joel Wingard coached the distance runners with Dan Crites, Ty Strange, and Andrew Lathrop for the two mile, and Murray Gamrath, Mark Iles and Gavin Gordon in the one mile.

Mr. Tor Johanesson coached sprinters Dave Estes, Kelly Grewelle, Ben Attridge and Mike Hull and hurdlers George Lee, Greg Tschida and Rex McGuire, who all did well this year.

Once again Peninsula's boys' track team upheld their reputation, and hopefully they can continue to do so in the future.

Soccer is a

With seniors Mike Bos, Mike Fandel, and Ken Massee returning, the Peninsula soccer team set high goals for this season. Despite facing tough opponents such as Jefferson and Federal Way, last season fifth place finishers demonstrated the makings of being a number one team this year.

With a number of returning starters from last year, Coach Larry Madden was confident that this season would be a successful one, due to the teamwork and a "together" attitude on the part of the players.

6 The entire defense returned this year for the Seahawks including Brian Paige, Tom Greetham, John Suttles, and John Skansi at full backs, and Paul Skansi at goalie. Marc Anderson, a fullback last year, moved up to center halfback this year, flanked by Steve Hunt and Ken Massee. The front line of the Seahawks included captains Bos and Fandel, plus sophomore Bobby Burton.

Always a hot and competitive soccer team, this year's South Puget Sound League competing Seahawks were no exception.

SCHOOLDAYS

the bell rings, and all things are calling.
the days past, the plays cast remember, september when we were together, together, together

schooldays the happy days, when we were going nowhere schooldays the happy days, when we were feeling no care schooldays when three friends said that we'd be friends forever.
how long is ever, isn't it strange schooldays together, why do they change?

-Gentle Giant

In Gig Harbor, tradition and change blend to form a unique society. More and more people are moving into the town, and this growth causes many changes. New shops spring up next to old ones and the small local businesses must compete with large supermarket chains. No longer is Gig Harbor an isolated fishing village. Now it must serve as the nucleus of the entire Peninsula area.

Despite Gig Harbor's increasingly important role, there is still a simplicity that gives the Harbor its charm: the fishing tradition is very important in Gig Harbor. The Harbor itself is always busy as fishermen venture out to search for the elusive salmon. Gig Harbor is proud of its fishing heritage, and evidence of this is reflected everywhere. Perhaps the most memorable thing about the town is the sight of fishing boats swaying at anchor with their masts outlined against the sky.

Gig Harbor's expansion brings progress and tradition together and they intermix to form the atmosphere that gives Gig Harbor its appeal. The students of Peninsula High School, whether they actually live in the harbor itself or not, feel a strong tie to this growing harbor town. No matter how much it changes, Gig Harbor will always be Our Town.

That One Wooden Stage

Backstage I am no longer a student of Peninsula High School,
I am a nightclub dancer in New York
A poor, aged Jew in Russia
A twelve-year-old teenybopper in River City, Iowa
I am ANYONE but me.
My body is electrified by the fumes of grease-paint
I tremble with excitement at the sight of the curtain
Silence falls, save a few whispers in the wings
On stage I am tight with energy
Pouring forth weeks of rehearsal into three short nights.
Blazing lights blind me from those peering faces.
Tensely I concentrate and await cues
Slowly I slip into a dream of actual belief in my surroundings
As the curtain closes my veins rush with dynamite
Exploding tears that reveal relief.
The house thunders and the crowds roar as I take my final bow and then-when it is all finished-my soul is torn
And a bit of my life is left dancing in Oklahoma
And every other place I have lived
On that one wooden stage.

A Point of View

The school bus approaches the parks.
It lets out the mass of students packed like sardines in a can.
The school moans.

"Welcome one and all to the fantastic, colossal Peninsula High School. A place where your fondest wishes can come true ..."

"You could be the next Einstein, one of the greatest actors alive, or maybe ... just yourself!"

Peninsula school picks up its foundation, and when everybody in inside, sits lightly back down.

The building tries to build up morale:

It looks down with its cracked, paint-peeled, windowframe eyes, and realizes something! Another group of kids has entered, another is leaving!

"My god! Where has all the time gone!"

Why it only seems like yesterday that the ones leaving were the new ones!

They had their share of being shoved against the wall, but there were also good times-trying out for the first play, singing with the choir, turning out for soccer, football, basketball, or track. Mr. James and his financiers.

And before you know it, these same people are gone, like wisps of smoke on the wind.

Some of these kids act tough, and say this school sucks, but I've seen these same people walk quietly down the halls remembering ... and maybe thinking, this school isn't so bad after all!

I've seen them all. I guess I never really get over losing the kids. They fill me up, color me from inside. They decorate me with golden trophies, and works of art. They fill me with music until I'm ready to burst. They're strong and their Seahawk blood urges them to victories against other schools. And I, a school, a building a stone, plaster and wood, cry and cheer them on, them and their generations to follow!"

Another bus parks.

"Welcome one and all to the fantastic, colossal Peninsula High School. A place where your fondest wishes can come true ..."

KAREN BOXER

any or a real girl, but if you keep hanging around Denise you're going to end up like that. Well, it's been a good year and probably a better summer, so I hope I see you some where.

Memories of Ones We Miss

Nothing's quite the same
when you lose a friend
It's been over a year now but the heart just doesn't mend as fast as it was ripped open and pulled at and torn
The Narrows Bridge can't help it if it still makes people mourn
But that bridge seems like a demon so cold and so gray and if you're on it all the time how can memories slip away?
But the memories are so good and I think of times gone by and a smile comes to my face before I get the chance to cry
And I wonder
    oh I wonder
but I guess I'll never know
    If Mandy now makes sunsets
    And if Jill can make it snow ...

-Sandi Ryan

Sharp and clear
Vibrato ringing and growing with the notes
Alone on stage
Rings the flute in a Bach Sonata

Mother remembers back
Five years or so ago
When the cheap, newly-shined Bundy flute let out its first breathy tone
For weeks unfamiliar, undefined, strained notes filled the house
Shrieks accompanying them

The audience applauds
As the final notes are played
And the flute goes back to the band room
To be nestled safely in the velvet lined case

"... In all these things we have complete victory through him who loved us! For I am certain that nothing can separate us from His love: neither death nor life ... neither the world above nor the world below-there is nothing in all creation that will ever be able to separate us from the love of God which is ours through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Karen,
 what a year. Boy to am I glad to over. I'm really glad that we had our 3rd period classes together this year. I'm really glad I got to know ya this year & I hope to see ya around next year. Have fun this summer, but keep your nose clean.
 love
 ya,
 Karen

Karen,
 Have a great summer,
 855-6010-1000

Karen,
 Have a wonderful Summer
 keep in touch! see you around
 love
 857-1836
 Tom
